

Liverpool Struts it's Stuff!

he back streets of Liverpool; the roads that wind left and right throughout the most amazing well known city of England that are embedded with derelict, architectural buildings that tower over you, dark factory like sheds scattered here and there. Who knew that a few of them put together could create the largest event of the UK. The place that all addicted shoppoholics search endearingly for. The place we want, we beg for. That thing everybody needs in their lives. BRITISH STYLE COLLECTIVE. Lights. Camera. Action! The biggest bestselling fashion event across the country, people from all over, businesses and industries from here there and everywhere come just for this elite event!

They offered the chance for our loved ones to be educated to the point that we were completely blown away!

It started with a large entrance door and a large man stood outside dressed in black. We stood there waiting... we could not wait to see what was inside. Our expectations were small, a small quiet fashion show at the most. Well, by the end of just the first location we were utterly mesmerised! We were knocked of our seats in astonishment! Music bouncing off the speakers, an old hall that had been festooned in decorations, professionals walking right next to us at our feet, a glowing cat walk at our sides and a swarm of stunning models backstage!

The next location: strange, azure colours filled the room and had a special miasma of music in front of us. Sculptures of inexplicable work created just for our eyes. It was a show based on the cleverest thing we had ever seen. And it ended with a small but outstanding show of acrobatically, artistic dancers.

Throughout the rest of the day we were amazed by astonishing clothes, dresses, makeup, and a whole lot of glitter! From diamond chokers, to fluffy shoes to free little goodies, insightful interviews to meets and greets with the newest hottest celebs! The expedition was gorgeous and the brilliant fashion show couldn't have been better. Dancers, singers, a violinist, celebrity hosts and beautiful models filled the arena along with an amazing harmony of an audience to go along with it!

Some people may say fashion is just not for them, they think all these trends just aren't what they like. Little do they know they are wrong. We pick and choose our own clothes everyday whether they are a sleek, sexy, silk pair of pyjamas from Victoria's Secret or the strangest combination of baggy, slouchy pyjamas from the corner shop, if it's your favourite T-Shirt from Primark or your only top from Prada. Everybody has a link to fashion whether you like it or not, we're all about it and there's no getting out of it.

At the clothes show they're all about making your fashion life incredible! They strive to put all the new ideas and fashion to everyone's knowledge! We want to spread it! Everywhere! BRITISH STYLE COLLECTIVE 2017, WOW!
